INJECTECH ADDS NEW Y-CONNECTORS TO PRODUCT LINE

See These Fittings First at MD&M West - Booth #4079

Injectech, LLC, located in Fort Collins, Colorado, is proud to announce its new barbed Y-Connectors. These products will join Injectech's already established line of tube-to-tube connectors in 2017.

Injectech will be debuting the Y-Connectors at the upcoming MD&M West trade show in Anaheim, California from February 7th to February 9th at Booth #4079. Injectech would like to invite all attendees to visit the booth, see these new products, and receive samples. Attendees are also welcome to see all the products Injectech has available including but not limited to, male and female luers, check valves, and spikes.

Injectech is a manufacturer of injection molded components and assemblies for the OEM medical device industry. With a customer driven focus centered around high quality products, unequalled customer service, and flexibility, Injectech proves they're a company you can depend on.
